DALY CITY YOUTH COMMISSION STARTED

Group To Help Stop Juvenile Problems

A Daly City Youth Commission, to pinpoint problems and possible solutions for juvenile delinquency, will hold its first meeting April 30 at city hall, Mayor Joseph Verducci announced at the Monday council meeting.

The commission will have an impressive membership, including Judge Frank Blum, City Attorney Paul Hupf, superintendents of elementary and high school districts, Recreation Director Charles Vincent, principals of junior high and two senior high schools, student body officers of eighth grades and the high schools, members of the county probation department, Saa Francisco probation department, representatives of Daly City police, San Francisco chief of police office, three Catholic priests, area Boy Scout director, Ministerial Association, Harold Bradshaw, editor of the Times and Record. Chairman will be councilman Robert St. Clair.

Home Discipline

How to enforce curfew laws will be discussed. The group will discuss what the laws are in neighboring communities and how ways can be found to enforce our laws more.

"We are lax in attempting to take care of the activities of our children. So is every other community," Mayor Verducci said.

"This type of discipline should originate in the home. The church, schools and municipality can't take all the burden."

Verducci said Daly City is getting the spillover of juvenile delinquents because of a "get tough" policy in San Francisco. Daly City will also get tough, he said, and this will cause the delinquents to go down the peninsula.

Hoods Not Helped

Answering a question, St. Clair said the youth commission is not sitting in judgment of habitual offenders of the type involved in the shotgun slaying last week at Thornton Beach.

Those youths, he said, had records two and three pages long. Many were over the age of 18 he stated, and the Delfino brothers, charged with the slaying, were ages 21 and 20.

Dislike Authority

Police Chief Roland Petroschi stated that the curfew law in Daly City requires youngsters to not loiter after 10 p.m. to daylight unless accompanied by a parent or unless working at a job.

As a side thought, he also added that the police department doesn't have time to work on prevention of delinquency or crime. Persons, nowadays, he added, have "no respect for authority."

"Years ago, people used to say the laws were made for the other person. Now they wonder if the laws were made for anyone."

And also, he added, the newspapers made a "hero" out of the Untouchables gang involved in the Thornton Beach shooting.

Kids "Behave" At Local Pool Hall

Kenneth Bessler, owner of the Daly City Billiard Parlor, 6380 Mission, has a forceful, no-nonsense manner when dealing with juveniles.

Youths with so-called "records" are not allowed to play pool.

"Up here, I don't have any trouble at all with juveniles. I definitely treat them firm."

Bessler pointed to a sign at the end of the lunch counter which states that profanity and misuse of equipment will not be tolerated.

"That's exactly what I mean," he affirmed.

Bessler blames the Wednesday night dances at the War Memorial Community Center as the main juvenile delinquency catalyst in Daly City.

Not Successful

"They've never proven successful," he said. They try to give the youngsters proper atmosphere, but they're all wrong. The dances are not supervised properly."

During the week he said, things are generally pretty quiet on the Hill, but he said on a recent Wednesday night 15 youngsters were congregated at a local market using the excuse they were going to the dance.

He recalled another time during the night of a dance, that youths stood in the street and used obscene language to passing motorists.

About a month ago, after a dance, Bessler recalled, "about 35 of those little punks thought they were going to take over my place."

The dances, he added, should have been discouraged long ago. They bring in kids all the way from the "San Francisco Mission and Excelsior districts."

Bessler adds he never encourages the "rougher" type of element in his pool hall.

"When a youngster comes in here, he behaves himself in a spectacular manner."

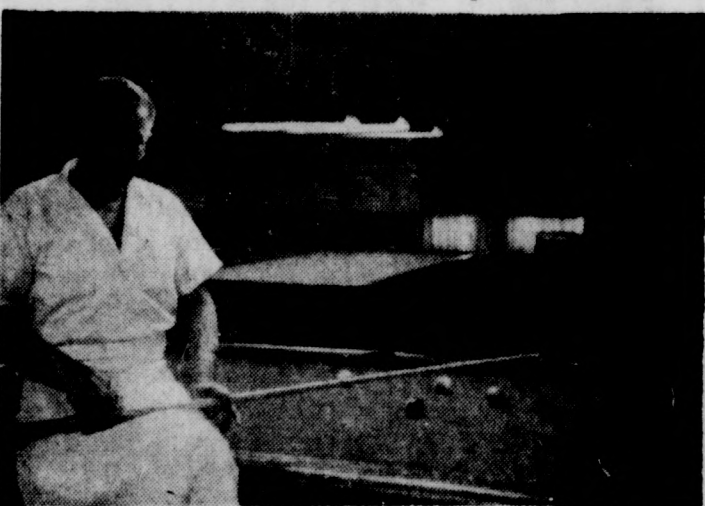

The Tough Ones

"When I know that a certain youngster has been misbehaving on the outside I bar him from coming up here. It prevents them from bringing up friends of an undesirable nature."

"I look back at the different fellows I've run out of here. They usually end up in jail or at Hillcrest Juvenile home."

"I never allow kids to gang up in a corner. If I see half a dozen ganged up in a corner I say 'break it up' and they get out."

"Primarily they are here to enjoy themselves. This is not a Sunday school class, but I want them to behave. These boys mind me more than they do their parents."

Murder Charge On Delfinos

The two Daly City brothers accused in the shotgun slaying of William "Angel" Lopez at Thornton Beach, were indicted by the grand jury Monday night, April 23, on a charge of murder after hearing testimony from 12 witnesses.

The brothers, Larry and Barry Delfino, were arraigned Wednesday, April 25, in Superior Court.

They were arrested Wednesday, April 18, following the Thornton Beach rumble which left one dead, two wounded by shotgun pellets and one knocked unconscious with a shotgun butt.

Their friend, Robert Gomez, 18, of 354 Chester street, was also arrested on a murder charge. Charged with assault with a deadly weapon was Chico Gebhardt, 19, of 199 Madrid street, San Francisco.

The Delfino brothers' 15-year-old brother, Richard, 15; Gomez, and Bernice Gutierrez, the 17-year-old key figure in the rumble, landed in San Mateo County's juvenile hall, Hillcrest.

Miss Gutierrez was made a ward of the court in January of 1959 for truancy, staying out late and other acts of waywardness and was placed in Hillcrest on a parole violation. She lives at 362 Hillcrest, Daly City.

The fracas started apparently when a girl told Gebhardt that the Delfinos had hit her at a party.

There were about 40 youths sitting on the beach around a bonfire. About eight or nine were girls.

According to the "Red Fox," a former member of the Untouchables, Chico cut Barry Delfino over the eye. Then, he said, the Delfinos went over the hill and came back with guns.

Red Fox told the following: They fired down at the beach party. Chico and Larry then fought with knives. One of the Delfinos took his gun by the barrel and hit Chico on the head.

Near their parked cars, the Delfinos ran into Willard Pierson (The Angel) Lopez, 25, of 49 Hillcrest drive, Daly City.

There was a shotgun blast and Lopez, mortally wounded, managed to get into his car and drive down Alemany boulevard, where he lost control at the Lake Merced avenue intersection, hit a telephone pole and rolled into a service station. He stepped out of his auto and fell dead.

The number of deaths of youths involved with plate glass is increasing on the West Coast, he said. He urged the city council to consider an ordinance making it mandatory for installation of safety glass in doors. Mayor Joe Verducci said the matter would be taken up at budget sessions.

Juvenile Problems

"Whatever juvenile problems we have lies in the individual juvenile, not in the community or lack of interest of parents."

This was stated by Judge Charles Becker, judge of the Northern San Mateo County District Court, South San Francisco.

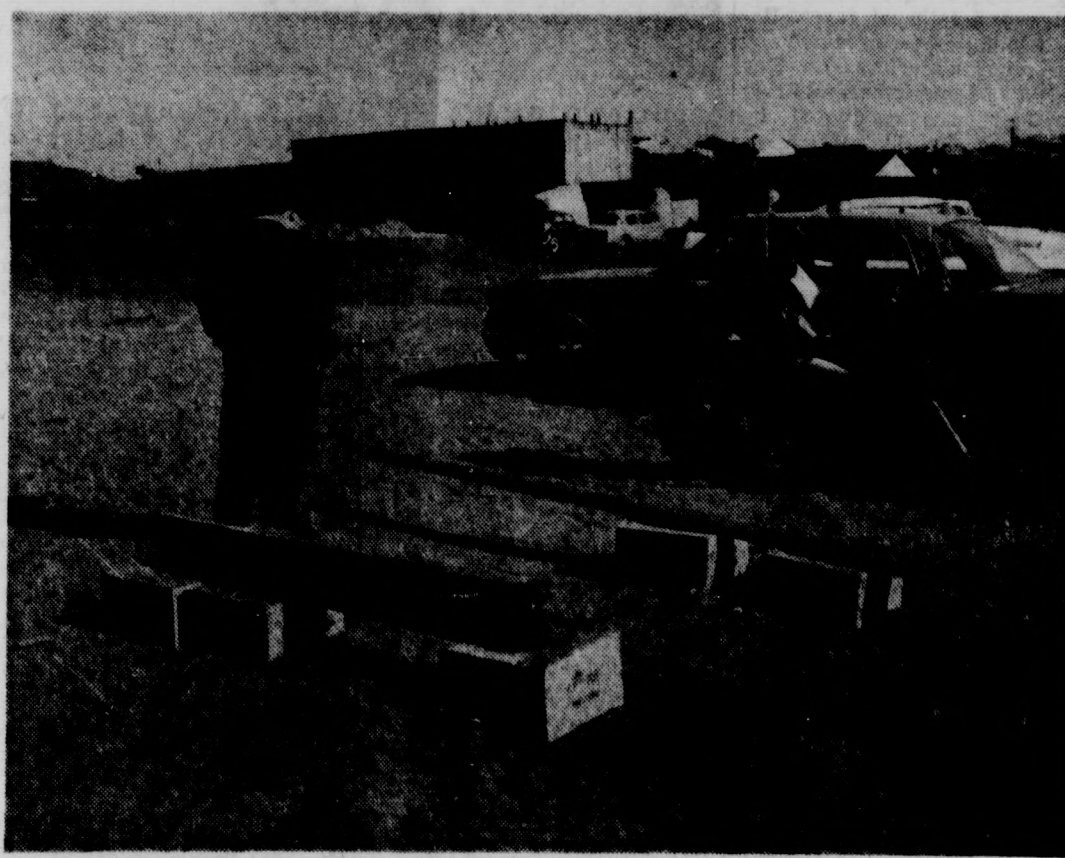

Juveniles who get in trouble, he said, "either do not have the ability or do not want to take the time to rationalize the responsibility of their acts."

"I gather that impression because I make it a practice to acquire this from the young people who appear before me as an aid to arriving at an appropriate disposition or sentence."

"I ask, 'Why did you do it?' And the stock answer is 'I don't know. I just didn't think.' And therein lies the problem."

Parents Don't Know

"If parents are to be blamed, then, in my opinion, they are to be blamed for not knowing what their kids are doing. Many parents don't know

FATAL SPOT where William Pierson (The Angel) Lopez was wounded with a shotgun at Thornton Beach. Sheriff's deputies marked off tire tracks of the Angel's auto where he jumped into car and drove off mortally wounded with 174 shotgun pellets in his chest.

Chamber Hears Marine Program For Teen Boys

A Marine Corps "Devil Pups" program, to install character and responsibility into teenage boys, was presented April 19 to the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce.

Marine officers explained that "A normal boy can be as rough and tough as any situation calls for, yet remain a mannerly gentleman, physically and mentally clean, who has respect for himself, for others, for constituted authority and for our Flag."

Devil Pups, they explained, live in Marine Corps barracks with their instructors. They make their own beds and clean their barracks.

The officers asked for a quota of five boys from Daly City.

Glass Door Safety Urged

The problems of "cheap plate glass doors" were told to city councilmen April 23 by a representative of West Coast plate glass safety interests, Richard Dwyer.

He cited the death of 10-year-old Charles P. Chervella, 282 First avenue, Daly City, who died after running through a plate glass door at his home on April 15.

The number of deaths of youths involved with plate glass is increasing on the West Coast, he said. He urged the city council to consider an ordinance making it mandatory for installation of safety glass in doors. Mayor Joe Verducci said the matter would be taken up at budget sessions.

New Post Office For Daly City

Plans for a new and perhaps larger post office for Daly City were disclosed Monday, April 23, at the city council meeting.

Real estate officer James Ward of the San Francisco regional office, said the Daly City post office, 31 Bepler street, will be eventually closed down.

The Roman Catholic Archbishop of San Francisco has proposed rezoning of the proposed area, on 88th and 89th streets at Sullivan in Daly City to accommodate the new building.

Councilmen haggled for an hour over whether lots 33-37 in the proposed rezoning area commercial zone and finally voted 4-1 for the inclusion with Councilman St. Clair urging a no vote.

More 'Rumbles' If Apathy Continues

Mrs. Kay Irvine of South San Francisco, founder of the Kids in Production (KIP), made a grim forecast of "more rumbles to come" if public apathy continues toward the juvenile delinquency problem.

"I think every person in every home in every community has to make this a personal crusade," she said.

Mrs. Irvine said she took issue with a statement by Mayor Joseph Verducci of Daly City that San Francisco delinquents come to Daly City when San Francisco police get tough.

"He's not looking far enough back or ahead," she said.

A lot of these kids live in Daly City. The mobility of these kids is such that you can't say we're going to dump all the rats out of the sack."

Mrs. Irvine said she had first voiced her warning a year ago when she announced more serious trouble would follow a series of wild fights along the beaches, unless someone stepped in to help.

Following the Washington's Birthday gang fight in Daly City she and other leaders of the KIP organization called a mass meeting at 144 Hillside boulevard in Daly City. Only a few youth and police authorities showed up, she said.

Mrs. Irvine's organization seeks to reach young people through theatrical productions, giving them opportunity for expression and a feeling of belonging. KIP, she says, accepts delinquents and near-delinquents — draws kids in on the fringes — kids who have a tendency toward delinquency and give them counseling and guidance.

The feeling of being an outsider, drives young people into gangs and this leads to agitation, Mrs. Irvine added.

5. Approved a traffic com-

Jacket Clubs Befriended By Youth For Service

"We try to stay away from the word gang," said Orville Lester director of the San Francisco Youth For Service, an experimental program sponsored by the American Friends Service council as a grant of the Ford Foundation.

Lester does some of his work with youth in Daly City. Xavier Brooks, the "Red Fox" a former member of the Untouchables, said he was president of this council.

The "Fox" told about a rumble April 18 at Thornton Beach that left one dead; two wounded by shotgun pellets; one knocked unconscious with a shotgun.

Three Delfino brother, Larry, 21, Barry, 19, and Richard, 15, were taken into custody on a charge of murder.

$300,000 Assessment Plan Started

The Daly City council Monday night, April 23, instituted proceedings for a $298,000 Homestead street assessment of 296 lots west of the Broadmoor shopping area.

Future plans are for a multi-residential area, now unimproved and often flooded by a Broadmoor creek.

Property owners will share the burden of the bonded indebtedness as the land is developed.

City engineer William Chapman said plans are to install a 60-inch storm sewer underground, eventually fill the creek and re-grade the lots in the creek area.

Dirt roads will be paved, sidewalks, curbs, gutters, street lights, sanitary sewers, water mains and fire alarms will be installed.

The lots in the area have an average assessment of about $1,000 each.

In other action, the council:

1. Approved renewal of contract for Kaiser Foundation Health Plan, Inc.

2. Approved an application for a use permit to install two electric Bank of America signs on the roof at 1 San Pedro road.

3. Denied a variance for a five-foot increase in height for a sign on Mission street, 230 feet north of Parkview avenue.

4. Approved the establishment of a city awards program, for city employees with over five years of service to the city.

5. Approved a traffic committee recommendation for two hour parking without meters on the 6800 block of Mission street.

6. Set the ball rolling on study sessions for council policies and programs, including a youth council, city charter, Knowles avenue redevelopment project, water rates, codification of ordinances, purchasing code, electrical and plumbing code, hiring city planner, hiring administrative assistant, opening White street for fire and police use, elementary and high school board agreements.

Dances For Local Kids Only

Charles Vincent, recreation director of Daly City, answered a complaint that gangs of kids from other areas are coming to teenage dances at the War Memorial Community Center.

"There's nothing to this statement," he said.

"We require they be Jefferson or Westmont students to attend the dances. Out-of-town kids are prohibited."

Vincent said he receives complaints from parents that there are not enough dances coming into Daly City—not enough programming or activities to keep the kids off the street."

But, he said, delinquent kids have interests that are not socially accepted by the community. "We can't reach this kind of youth," he stated.

"They like booze, gambling and girls—something we can't offer."

Vincent blamed parents for much of the delinquency problem. "Actually the kids spend more time in the home than anywhere else. So this brings the problem back to the parents. A lot of the time the parents are not setting the proper example. They take the stand that if the kids are out of their hair, they are much better off."

The Daly City Recreation department, Vincent asserted, has no trouble at all at its dances. "When the youths are under our supervision, they either behave, or they get out."

Arson Charges Dropped; More To Be Sought

Charges against four Daly City firemen of conspiracy to commit arson were dismissed Monday in municipal court, South San Francisco.

But Daly City police said they will seek indictments against the firemen through the grand jury.

The firemen, Harvey Cross, George Bullwinkel, Robert Malcoln and James Dresser, were dismissed from their jobs after April 6 fire at the Lagomarsino warehouse.

The men, charged by Richard G. Hamilton and John J. Grizzel of conspiring to start a fire to get more firemen on the roster, have filed a million dollar slander suit against their accusers.

The program was started in 1954 and is held at Camp Pendleton, 60 miles south of Los Angeles. Any non-delinquent, healthy boy 15 or 16 years of age may become a Devil Pup. The program is for a 10-day period.

Future plans for Dwight's call for an extensive nursery.

Cub Scout Pack 259 Presents Pirate Skit

The Cubs from Pack 259 arrived in costume and each Den gave a performance at the April pack meeting. Den I came as pirates—complete with sashes, eye patches, earrings, daggers, bare-chested shirts, bandanas tied on their heads and plenty of swords ready for action and they sang some choruses of "Sailing."

Den II portrayed characters of the frontier era—George Russell and Davie Crockett with coonskin and rifles; Mike Fink, riverboat captain with his sounding stick; an Indian with leather vest, fringed pants and a wig; and a hill billy with derby, vest and patched pants.

Mark Fontana accompanied the boys on his accordion to the tune of "Davie Crockett." Den III came as islanders in colorful sarongs, leis, and straw hats and gave a demonstration of the "limbo" dance to the rhythm of bongo drums and maracas.

They went all out in their maneuvers to get under that bar each time it was lowered. Den IV had a skit and the setting took place around a campfire in a hobo camp. A train whistle in the distance was the cue for the group of hobos to pick up their musical instruments and harmonize to the tune of "Side by Side."

The train whistle and curtain man was Jerrold Weiner; clarinet—Billy Robbins; piano—Tobi Kasavan; accordion—Keith Bishop; clarinet—Dave Goldman; drum—Mike Coker; guitar—Grady Proctor; ukulele—Den Mother, Barbara Kasavan. The train whistle once again cued four of the hobos to get up and sing some choruses of "Side by Side" while doing a soft shoe dance. The dancing and singing talent consisted of Mark McCaulou, Billy Sherbert, Max Bushner and Den Mother, Betty McCaulou. Ken McCaulou, Director of the Calif. Institute of Music, coordinated and arranged the music so that the boys could all harmonize together.

Winners of the contest for best costumes were: 1st prize—Greg de Martini, Den II; 2nd prize—David Goldman, Den IV; 3rd prize—James Tripodes, Den III. Jerrold Weiner and James Tripodes were welcomed into Cub Pack 259 with the Cubs and Den Mothers participating in the induction ceremony.

On behalf of Garden Village PTA, Rennie Thomas, our institutional representative, presented Cubmaster, Frank Swanson, with the Pack Charter for 1962.

TV and RADIO

By Mona Baker

"Thirty seconds—stand by!" As the floor director called out time signals thirty-two youngsters from Colma K-6 Elementary School sat enthralled in KPIX's studios last week watching a "live" telecast of "Noon News" (weekdays, 12N), one of the outstanding news programs in the Bay Area. After the telecast the students had a chance to question newscasters John Weston and Bill Tracy on what goes on behind the scenes of a television newscast.

It was a rewarding experience for the children to visit the program. For the past several weeks they had studied the history of television in their classroom and also watched the "Noon News" on a portable set the day before they visited the studio.

Channel Five's "Noon News" has long been a daytime favorite among viewers. Presenting one of the few "news-in-depth" programs during the entire day the newscast has steadily built up a large and loyal audience throughout northern California receiving national recognition. Skillfully combining local, national and international news items, interspersed with "live" interviews, on-the-scene news reports, feature stories, the program is both informative and entertaining.

Newscaster John Weston, regular reporter on the program, has an easy and informal approach that is most refreshing. His background includes ten years in all phases of radio and television news including shooting film, processing and editing film, as well as news writing and editing. Until retiring from television a few weeks ago, his co-newscaster on the program was Wanda Ramsey, also a versatile and talented television personality as well as a skillful reporter.

A woman's interpretation in a news program is vital to such a telecast particularly since so many viewers of the daytime audience are women. Also a woman's participation gives the program added contrast and interest.

For youngsters in search of a challenging and interesting career, they could well consider the field of television newscasting. News programs as well as documentaries are increasing each year on television and stations will be looking for talented young people in the years ahead.

In high school many students begin preparing for a career in journalism. High schools would be very wise to include a study of television newscasting in their journalism courses.

where their children are and who they associate with and these 'things' come as a surprise to them.

"They say around the house they have no way of suspecting. The kids don't drink at home. It's not that the parents are neglecting their kids, they are just not aware, as they should be, as to what the kids are doing away from the home."

Judge Becker added that more adults than juveniles are involved in misdemeanor offenses. He also said that the age youths cause the most trouble is between 17 and 25.

Youngsters are not more delinquent today, he said.

Youths in trouble today would have been in trouble in any generation they were born, he added.

"Society is such that there was, is and will be a certain percentage of people, regardless of the community, who are not able to live the same as other people.

"They will be a problem regardless of which generation they live in.

Publicize The Good

"I think the community should publicize the greater number of young people who are credits to the community rather than display all this attention on those who are not," Judge Becker added.

"Drinking is a problem. Lack of faith is a problem. Of all the kids I see, they have no particular faith. Drinking is involved in 99 per cent of the instances.

"I think we have a good juvenile area. The greatest number of juvenile offenders are for traffic and drinking violations. We haven't had any large number of aggravated juvenile offenses.

"We do our best. I give them every consideration I can. If they fool me once, shame on them. If they fool me twice, shame on me."

Evangelist Week At Westlake Baptist Church

A week of evangelism will be held by the Westlake Community Baptist Church, Southgate and Elmwood streets, Daly City, beginning April 29. The Rev. Jack Wyne, a Baptist minister from San Lorenzo, will be leading the evangelistic program.

He will speak at the regular Sunday evening service, and on Monday, April 30, he will hold a training session for the teams of callers after which the calling will be held through Wednesday, May 3. On Thursday, May 4, a victory dinner will be held at 6:15 p.m. at the church with a program consisting of high points of the week, and a sharing of experiences to be held at 7 p.m.

There will be 35 teams of two members each who will be doing the calling, and they will be calling on friends who have attended the church from time to time. This will be a wonderful week of visiting and fellowship for the members of the church, and it is hoped that through these visits many of the friends who have visited the church occasionally will get to know more about the church and what it stands for.

City To Take Action

It is indeed gratifying to see the City of Daly City, through its mayor and council members, starting a comprehensive drive to curb and curtail the recent wave of juvenile delinquency.

Mayor Verducci has called for a special meeting on the problem, to be held at the council chambers on Monday night, April 30, at 8 o'clock. Councilman Robert St. Clair will be chairman for the evening with the purpose of forming a Daly City Youth Commission. Chief of Police R. A. Petrocchi, City Attorney Paul Hupf, Superior Court Judge Frank Blum, High School Superintendent Ed Morgan, Elementary Schools Superintendent Richard Foster, Father Power, representatives of the Ministerial Association, and many other interested citizens have been personally invited to attend the meeting.

This is an excellent beginning — a real start — towards coming up with the answer to this vexing problem. It shows that Daly City is really concerned about youth problems and has made up its mind to "do something about it."

Of course, it is no easy job — for it is not a simple problem — and if you are asked to co-operate with your help, give it willingly.

Jobs For The Handicapped

Have you been threatening to make room in your closet for all those new Easter clothes?

Kenneth G. Foster, executive director of Goodwill Industries, asks that you do it now and donate the items you no longer use to Goodwill's program to create jobs for the handicapped.

Contributions at Goodwill have hit an all time low, and 23 disabled women in the sewing room are now working on a day to day basis because of lack of materials.

"It makes no difference how ragged or worn the clothing is," Foster said, "for it can always be transformed not only into work for the disabled, but into an article within the reach of a low income family."

Foster pointed out that draperies at Goodwill are laundered, ironed, then cut down into throw pillows — which, in turn, are stuffed with the sterilized cotton padding taken from mattresses too old to be repaired.

Cutting the worn spots from blankets and rugs, which are then rebound, also creates employment, as well as training for those who hope to graduate into competitive industry.

Signs Of Panic

"Sponsors of the proposal for a compulsory system of government medicine for the aged are showing signs of panic."

Thus speaks Dr. Leonard W. Larson, president of the American Medical Association. The system he speaks of would finance medical services for everyone now drawing Social Security benefits, even though they can afford to pay for those services. And he referred specifically to a rather remarkable statement made by one of the system's principal advocates. This spokesman wants an organization of advertising agencies to police advertisements so nothing dishonest will be said against the bill.

Dr. Larson observes: "Who is going to police him?" And that's a very good question — for if one side of a controversy needs policing, the other obviously does too.

As a matter of fact, the spokesman in question seems to have been a bit careless himself. He has said that "there is no plan to have somebody in Washington decide which hospital an older person might use." This, at best, is highly misleading. For, to quote Dr. Larson again, "... the bill plainly states that no hospital can participate in the program unless a contract is signed with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington on terms and conditions satisfactory to the department's secretary."

This issue, like all other issues, should be argued and decided on its merits. There's no room in this country for the policing of thought, opinion and expression — so long, of course, as these stay within the limits of established law.

The View From ..Behind The Badge

Written and Edited by Daly City Police Department

Sidelights of murder ...

Officer Steen patrols his beat. He received a message over his prowl car radio. He is directed to proceed to a location and investigate a report of an injury auto accident. He responds to the scene.

At the scene he finds a wrecked auto. The driver is near death. Steen summons assistance and calls for an ambulance.

Steen has been sent to investigate an auto accident. He has found the accident. It would have been excusable, though later embarrassing, for him to proceed along these lines. Steen is inquisitive, however, and checks further ... and finds that his man has been shotgunned.

The preliminary investigation gets underway, and the basis for all later investigation is established. Sergeant Sims assigns necessary tasks to his uniformed men. Officer Sheehy makes some phone calls. And a captain and three members of the investigation division roll out of their beds and proceed to the scene.

Investigation indicates that, although death occurred in Daly City, the actual shooting seems to have occurred in county area. The victim has driven his auto for a distance prior to expiring. More phone calls are made, and investigators from the sheriff's office make tracks to the area. They are Captain O'Brien and Inspector Minehan, 20-year veterans; this is not their first murder investigation.

A score of people are picked up by the officers. They are ensconced in the council chambers, because the police station is antiquated and crowded, and there is no other way that this number of people could be accommodated.

It falls the lot of Officers Kolbmann and Lax to keep these people company for the next eight or ten hours, while other investigators interview them singly, and record their statements.

Most of the people who are awaiting questioning are known to the officers. Officer Doran recognized one with whom he has rapport. A quiet question, an answer, and there are names of suspects to consider. At that moment, miles away, Inspector La Bruzzo is eliciting the same suspect names from another person. He telephones in. It is now clear who is to be sought for the shooting.

The search commences, but the interviews also continue. Captain O'Brien is building his case, and it is done meticulously and methodically.

Twenty hours after the shooting, two suspects are at the offices of their attorneys. There they surrendered to three members of the investigation division. A third suspect is arrested at his home by Sergeant Benedetti and Officer Steen. A fourth person makes inquiry at the station ("I heard you people want to see me."). Indeed we do. He is booked.

A newspaperman asks Captain Beecher about the booking charge. "Murder, and en route to the sheriff's office."

"You mean 'suspicion of murder,' don't you?"

"No, I mean murder. They are booked for murder."

The prisoners and the case are shifted to the sheriff's office at this point. O'Brien and Minehan still have a lot of work to do. In Daly City — there are some loose ends to tie up. Members of the suspect's family have been threatened. Probably done by cranks, muse veteran officers. Nonetheless, protective measures are instituted.

Two investigation division men attend the victim's wake. They observe and will remember who else was present there. The officers also attend the funeral. The funeral cortege consists of 19 vehicles. The hearse and one official car lead. The tail end is brought up by an unmarked police car, and a vehicle containing press members. The intervening 15 vehicles carry family members and friends of the deceased, the grief stricken and the pseudo-grief stricken, the sincere mourners and those who are overacting. The license numbers of the 15 vehicles are recorded.

And so the unfortunate victim is buried. Some time in the future the case will be prosecuted by the district attorney's office. And experts and non-experts will discuss "gang" problems, so called, and will proclaim "hard action to be taken" and will prescribe remedies. It may be hoped that one of the "remedies" will include plans for a new police building.

And Officer Steen, who was first on the scene of the death, is the recipient of this classic remark: "Hey, Steen, did you make an accident report on the Angel Lopes case?"

Something For Everyone

by Samuel Chandler

No publisher would buy Zane Grey's first book, Betty Zane, so he published it himself.

Since, it has gone through hundreds of editions and remains ever popular. Before its publication, Zane Grey struggled to establish himself as a dentist, but acute boredom and an itch to write made him give up his profession.

In 1908 he finished his second manuscript and received a large variety of rejection slips.

Two years later, Harper Brothers printed his novel, "The Heritage of the Desert." His next book, "Riders of the Purple Sage," rolled up a sale of a million copies and 800,000 reprints.

These first three books were followed by 51 others. One estimate says that 17 million copies of his books have been printed.

It is hard to account for Zane Grey's popularity. All of his books follow a trite and over-worked formula.

They have very shallow plots. They are filled with incidents that are far-fetched and weak. Their characters are unreal and foolish. Grey's style is clumsy, his vocabulary is small, his grammar is poor. A school boy could do as well.

What, then, is there about Zane Grey's novels that make them so popular? Perhaps it is the escape they provide for the regimented and sedentary city dwellers and students who read them. Perhaps, it is a desire for action that has lingered in the spirit of man.

Whatever it is, it is a strong appeal; one that will make Zane Grey's work popular for a long time to come.

FIRE FACTS

(This article is written by Daly City Firemen and is published in this paper for the purpose of keeping the public informed about their Fire Department, its duties and associated activities.)

The Fire Department, like many businesses and corporations, finds it necessary and advantageous to send delegates to various conventions, conferences and meetings held throughout the year.

Last week, Battalion Chief Alexander, who heads the Fire Department's fire alarm system, spent two days at a conference held in Sparks, Nevada.

This conference was sponsored by the International Municipal Signal Association. The association's purpose is to assemble representatives of cities together so they may discuss their problems and how best to solve them. It also gives private business an opportunity to exhibit and explain advances made on new or improved signaling equipment.

A fire alarm system, as you are well aware, is certainly a means of signaling or communicating. When a handle is pulled on a fire alarm box it must work correctly, for life and property are almost always at stake.

Our fire alarm bureau continually strives to have the best fire alarm system possible. One sure way to keep abreast of new changes is through conferences and discussions with manufacturers and other city representatives.

At this two-day meeting, the president of Gamewell Fire Alarm Company spent a great deal of time on installation, preventive maintenance and other items that will help the growing community such as Daly City.

The Aerial Cable Company brought out the advantages of a new-type cable and wire called "Figure Eight," which Daly City will begin using on all new installations throughout the city. Maintenance on this cable will be small. We might also add that Daly City will be one of only three cities in the Bay Area using this type cable.

It is fine that cities encourage the attendance of conferences, whether it be fire alarm, training, safety or anything else, for the new and improved ideas brought back can benefit us all, if used properly.

Along with this we would like to mention that in Daly

Food For Thought

By the Daly City Ministerial Association

How wonderful it would be if all persons serving in an advisory capacity would refrain from dogmatic extremes. As a minister, I stand firm upon the inspired word of God — and yet I read from the pen of others in the same calling who differ with my thinking because their interpretation to me resembles keeping the law rather than living in grace.

So often I read articles that maintain that honesty is an absolute and not a relative quality of life. Either you tell a truth or a falsehood. There is no in-between — no off-shade of white in the matter. This cause me to ask myself anew each time it is brought to my attention: "Is such an absolute consistent with life?" In fear of being misunderstood, I refrain from taking a dogmatic stand against such a theory. However, here is some food for thought.

If some parishioner, broken hearted, almost to the point of collapse over a loved one at death's door, should ask her pastor if he thinks her loved one will die, should he answer her yes, if he has been professionally informed and thinks the loved one will die? Or is there a relative quality whereby he may give an evasive answer and start to prepare her gradually for the inevitable that is to happen? Is there a sharp line drawn, one side honesty, and the other side dishonesty?

Another example: I was amused while reading after an M.D. who said (and I'm not quoting verbatim): one of his patients was enjoying poor health. One day she read about a sickness that she had never had. Immediately she liked it and promptly developed all the symptoms: headache, nausea, constipation, palpitation of the heart, blurring eyes, etc. She called him immediately because she was afraid she was dying. Upon examination he found her as healthy as a "carp in muddy water."

What should he do, tell her she was not sick so she could angrily discharge him and get another doctor — spending her money that no doubt was needed for weightier matters, or should he tell her she was ill? Well, he took the shady way out and told her she was ill (she was in sort of a left-handed way, in her head), and gave her some nice pink placebo's (sugar pills) with the directions to take one every 15 minutes until they were gone. (Keeping her so busy taking pills that she would forget her illness.)

He said the recovery was spectacular. Did he deceive her? If honesty is absolute, yes he did, but it cured her and that is the doctor's business to cure people. If sugar does it, why not use sugar? End of doctor's report.

Paul says in 11 Corinthians 12:16, "... being crafty I caught you with guile." The word guile is "dolos," and means bait. He (Paul) had baited his hook to catch them for Jesus. The thought does not even enter my mind that Paul was dishonest, so which side of the line was he on?

I'm not trying to infer that there is ever a license for lying or dishonesty — God forbid — but is honesty absolute or relative?

I'm not asking, "it is — I'm asking, 'is it?'"

By REV. CHARLES R. ARCHER,
First Southern Baptist Church,
542 Lisbon Street, Daly City.

All parents with children of school age should be thankful that May 5 is Fire Service Day. All the fire stations will be open for your inspection. And from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. there will be a fire apparatus and equipment display at the Westlake Shopping Center.

man, Paul Keuhhirt, Scott Shackelford, Mr. George Simon, Donald Bosbery and Richard Fields.

Model Homes At Westmoor Library

Area realtors may be frustrated to learn that the model homes on display in the WHS library, complete though they may be, are neither for sale nor for rent.

Creators of the miniature homes, chosen from all the models constructed by mechanical drawing students, are Westmoorites Don Bosbery, Rich Fields, Bill Gosnell, Paul Keuhhirt, Tom Ottoman, and Scott Shackelford. The students spent six months preparing their entries, which included plans as well as a complete set of designs, consisting of seven large drawings.

Six winners from Westmoor will enter their models in the May 4 regional competition at San Francisco State, where the entries will be judged by ten Industrial Arts department heads of California state colleges. Don and Tom will enter their plans as well as their models.

SSF Woman's Club Elects Officers

At the April meeting of the South San Francisco Woman's Club, Mrs. Fred Sneed was re-elected president for the 1962-63 year.

Other officers elected were Mrs. James Howard, first vice president; Mrs. Charles Milly, second vice president; Mrs. J. D. Jackson, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Whitehead, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Sisto Feliz, financial secretary, and Mrs. Victor Escallier, treasurer.

Mrs. Fred Curtis and Mrs. Nathan Adler were elected to four-year terms on the board of directors.

The bridge section of the club will hold a dessert card party on Wednesday, April 25, at 12:30 p.m. at the clubhouse, 470 Grand avenue.

Regional winner will continue on to Sacramento, where his model will compete in the second annual California Spring Fair from May 12-20. First place winner will receive $100; several other smaller amounts and honorable mentions will also be awarded to outstanding entries.

Noted mechanical drawing instructor George Simon, "This year's models are really great—the best I've ever had."

SSF Faculty Women Hold Dinner-Dance

The South San Francisco school faculty wives will hold their annual dinner-dance May 5, at Nick's at Rockaway.

Mrs. Robert Warfield, dance chairman, announces that the affair is open to all teachers in the district.

Bluebirds Visit FBI

The Busy and Country Bluebird groups were invited by Frank Price, special agent in charge of FBI, in San Francisco, on April 6 to visit the FBI offices.

The tour was conducted by Lewis H. Johnson, special agent. During the tour, they learned about communications of FBI and its 55 offices and each girl received a special communication of greeting from special agent in charge, were shown how FBI is in instant communication with agents operating radio automobiles.

Each girl was then shown how fingerprints have definite characteristics and each received a fingerprint of their index finger to take home.

Afterwards, the girls were shown the excellent stenographic personnel who must accurately report the investigations by FBI agents. They were shown the weapons that agents must use on major cases to apprehend a vicious criminal.

The leaders, Mrs. Ann Johnson and Mrs. Eleanor Raymond, as well as the girls, all expressed appreciation for the tour.

Combat Training For Daly City Marine

Marine Pvt. Joseph D. LaFauci, son of Mrs. Joan LaFauci, of 551 MacArthur drive, Daly City, is scheduled to complete four weeks of individual combat training with the Second Infantry Training Regiment at Camp Pendleton, California.

With emphasis on the individual, the new Marines are trained in tactical matters and field and combat skills. They learn to assume their role in small fighting units—the four-man fire team and the 14-man squad.

The Parent Teacher Guild of St. Veronica's School has completed its plans for the Sew and Show fashion show to be held Saturday, April 28, in the school cafeteria.

Participants in the show will be women of St. Veronica's parish and their daughters who will model fashions from the family sewing machines. Also participating will be the sixth grade girls of St. Veronica's school, who will model clothes made by themselves.

Mrs. George Mayers is chairman of the show. Assisting her as committee chairmen are Mmes. Felix Buckley, Meter Cinquini, Andrew Blaise, Walter Rogers, George Aherne, Alfred Fourie, John Immel, and Philip Van Der Leest. The commentator will be Mrs. Gus Kergeanes.

Q—Are bills pending in Congress about opening up some phases of World War I or World War II GI insurance?

A—Several bills have been introduced into both houses, but as yet no action has been taken on any of them.

Q—What is the priority for admission to a VA hospital?

A—First, a service-connected veteran requiring medical care for the injury or disability for which he is service-connected. Second, a service-connected veteran requiring medical attention for some other injury or disability than that for which he is service-connected. Third, a non-service-connected veteran for whom a bed is available who will sign an affidavit that he cannot afford to pay the cost of his hospitalization and who must list all his assets and liabilities so as to give an idea of the worth of his estate.

Q—Are educational benefits still open to veterans of World War II?

A—The deadline for World War II veterans has expired as far as educational benefits are concerned. Korea Conflict veterans are the only ones entitled to educational benefits at this time.

New Allstate Office At Sears Westlake

Allstate Insurance Companies opened an office in the Sears Westlake store on April 16, according to W. Kel Potter, Allstate's regional manager.

This office is made necessary because of the increasing number of policyholders in the Westlake area, and will enable Allstate to bring insurance policy service and sales within reach of Westlake-Daly City residents.

And, if you're leaving for a weekend or longer, Chief Petrocchi also suggests:

6. Cancel all deliveries, such as the milk, laundry, cleaning, etc. Also, be sure to discontinue the newspaper or arrange to have it sent to your vacation address.

7. Have a neighbor, or your post office hold all mail until you return.

8. Arrange with a friend to mow the lawn and sweep your sidewalk once a week. Also ask him if he'll pick up any circulars or handbills that may be left on your porch.

9. Leave your shades and blinds as you normally do; closed blinds keep the sun out, but also make an effective screen for the burglar.

CHIEF PETROCCHI WARNS OF BURGLARY SEASON

This is the time of the year when burglars and prowlers have easy "pickin'," said Chief of Police R. A. Petrocchi, today. Most citizens will soon be going off on week ends or vacations and virtually abandoning their homes to burglars.

April 29th through May 5th has been declared by Mayor Joe Verducci and the Peace Officer's Association as Burglary Prevention Week, a period during which Chief Petrocchi hopes to make all homeowners more aware of the precautions they may take to frustrate the attempts of would-be burglars this summer.

The unconcerned and careless attitude of many was largely responsible for the 265 burglaries committed in Daly City last year. Although most people didn't intentionally invite intruders to ransack their home they might just as well have hung up a sign saying, "no one's home, burglars welcome!"

A stroll around your neighborhood any day will tell you at a glance who's away: their porches will be cluttered with circulars; an accumulation of milk bottles on the stoop; an unkempt lawn; an empty garage with the door open; or a bulging mailbox. Tip-offs that'll broadcast "no one's home" to anyone canvassing the neighborhood.

In the evening, most empty homes can be spotted too; just look for the dark houses. It's a known fact, light is one of the best deterrents to crime, yet most homeowners go out for an evening and leave their homes completely dark. Or, they'll go off for a weekend or

Children Eligible For Vet Payments

Unmarried minor children of deceased veterans may be eligible for pension payments even when their mother, the veteran's widow, is not eligible, Congressman J. Arthur Younger has announced.

Most frequent examples occur when the widow becomes ineligible due to remarriage or receives income in excess of the legal limit. Ineligibility of the widow does not affect the eligibility of the minor children.

gible. Younger pointed out, pension payments are stopped to her but continued to the eligible minor children.

Unmarried children of deceased veterans are eligible for pension payments until they are 18, or until age 21 if they are attending school, provided their own personal incomes would not bar them.

THE LAW

In Memphis, Tennessee, according to the National Automobile Club, it's against the law to drive while you're asleep.

vacation and leave the same light burning day and night. No light at all, or the same light burning continuously is a good giveaway "no one is home."

A simple, but effective means of having light in your home every evening, is by connecting an automatic timing device to one or two lamps. Such a timer will turn a lamp "on" early in the evening, then turn it "off" several hours later. With lights turning on and off during the evening hours it'll give the appearance someone is home and may avert a possible burglary attempt!

Chief Petrocchi went on to say, homes and apartments account for more than four of every ten burglaries. By observing a few simple precautionary steps, you can reduce the possibility of a burglar selecting your dwelling as his target next time you're away:

1. Close and lock all doors, including porch, basement and garage. Use pin-tumbler cylinder locks on outside entrances and safety latches on the windows.

2. Be sure all screens are fastened from the inside.

3. Connect a lamp to an automatic timer to turn lights in the home on and off each evening.

4. Never leave valuables lying around; keep them in a safety deposit box.

And, if you're leaving for a weekend or longer, Chief Petrocchi also suggests:

5. Notify your police department when you'll be leaving and how long you expect to be away.

6. Cancel all deliveries, such as the milk, laundry, cleaning, etc. Also, be sure to discontinue the newspaper or arrange to have it sent to your vacation address.

7. Have a neighbor, or your post office hold all mail until you return.

8. Arrange with a friend to mow the lawn and sweep your sidewalk once a week. Also ask him if he'll pick up any circulars or handbills that may be left on your porch.

9. Leave your shades and blinds as you normally do; closed blinds keep the sun out, but also make an effective screen for the burglar.

10. Never advertise your departure with an item in the HOSPITAL LOCATION — The above drawings pinpoint geographic location of the new 7.6 million dollar Mary's Help Hospital to be constructed in Daly City. The upper left-hand drawing is of the northern half of the San Francisco Peninsula, showing the hospital's location just across the San Francisco City-County line. The middle drawing locates the new building just west of Junipero Serra boulevard at Eastmoor in Daly City. At the lower right is the artist's conception of the new 250-bed hospital on its 11-acre site bounded by a series of freeways and boulevards which will make it readily accessible to the communities of Pacifica, South San Francisco, Daly City, Colma, as well as to the residential areas of San Francisco. The present Mary's Help Hospital, located in the city's Mission district, has been in operation for more than half a century. Lacking facilities for expansion and parking space at the present location, the Daughters of Charity, who conduct the hospital, decided to relocate in north San Mateo County which has been declared the "No. 1 Priority Area" in this part of California for adequate medical and nursing facilities. Ground breaking is scheduled within the next 12 months.

ARTIST'S CONCEPTION OF THE NEW 250-BED HOSPITAL

HERALD TO FUTURE

The Who, What And Why Of Mary's Help Hospital

By GENE HOFFMAN
Chairman, Public Relations Committee, Board of Governors, New Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City

Heralding next year's ground-breaking ceremonies for the new 7.6 million dollar Mary's Help Hospital to be constructed in Daly City, a ground swell of interest and enthusiasm is rising among the good people of North San Mateo County.

Wherever I go in the area to be served by this magnificent new hospital — whether Daly City, Colma, South San Francisco, Pacifica, or county areas in between — I am bombarded by questions from citizens really wanting to know the who, what, how, why and when of this essential modern facility which so soon will be theirs.

Five Basic Questions
Although there are many variations to the questions asked, these five are basic and most frequently heard:

(1) Who is building the hospital?
(2) What organization is behind it?
(3) Will it be a general community hospital, open to the public on a non-profit, non-sectarian basis? Or is it to be a district hospital supported in part by our taxes?
(4) Why is the present Mary's Help Hospital leaving San Francisco to relocate in our area?
(5) How is the new facility to be financed?

Since the first two questions involve a quite lengthy summary of the history of the Daughters of Charity, who have been operating hospitals all over the world for more than 300 years, I shall answer the other three questions first.

Suffice to say here, this distinguished order of nursing nuns, which will build and operate Mary's Help Hospital, was founded in 1633 and has had more than three centuries of progressive experience in caring for the sick and infirm and indigent poor, without regard to race, creed or color.

Well Trained
The Daughters of Charity are not only trained in the latest skills and techniques of modern medical and nursing care, with numerous master and doctorate degrees among them, but they are world famous for their out-patient clinical services and their nurses training schools, both of which will be components of the new Mary's Help Hospital.

Daly City, Colma, South San Francisco and Pacifica formed a mayor's hospital committee to investigate the formation of a hospital district.

Learning later that the Daughters of Charity were planning to re-locate their Mission district hospital, the mayor's committee petitioned them to build their new hospital in the midst of these fast growing communities. With a present population of 125,000, and a projected doubling of this figure within the next 18 years, this area was confirmed by the state hospital authorities as "Priority Area No. 1" in need of hospital facilities.

A beautiful 11-acre hilltop in Daly City, just west of Junipero Serra at Eastmoor, was purchased, and plans were begun for the construction of a 250-bed new Mary's Help Hospital on that picturesque and convenient site.

Question 3: How is the new hospital to be financed?

The total over-all cost of the new facility is set at $7,600,000. Because of its urgent need in the community, and the fact that it met every other qualification for matching State and Federal funds under the Hill-Burton Act, approximately half of the cost — $3,800,000 — will derive from this source. Fifty per cent of the remainder will be underwritten by a bank loan and assets on hand as represented by cash and property. This will leave a balance of approximately $1,000,000, which the Sisters hope may be raised over a three-year period by popular subscription.

This brings us back to Questions 1 and 2, concerning the history and qualifications of the people who are sponsoring this greatly needed project, and who will control and direct its operation.

Dedicated Laywomen
They are the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, the largest and one of the oldest religious communities in the Catholic church. They number approximately 45,000 individual members, and have more than 3,500 institutions, primarily hospitals, schools and orphanages under their supervision throughout the world.

Originally a group of dedicated laywomen who banded together to assist St. Vincent de Paul in caring for the poor and infirm in Paris and throughout France, the Confraternity of Charity (as the volunteer workers were then known) officially became a religious community in the year 1633 in Paris, when St. Louise de Marillac opened the first convent for postulants.

Now known as the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, the order grew rapidly, and so did their reputation for their devoted service to the poor and underprivileged throughout all France. Bishops and lay officers began calling upon the Mother House in Paris for members of the order to come to their respective areas to establish hospitals and otherwise assist the poor and needy.

Three centuries later they were truly an international organization, operating hospitals and other institutions of mercy on all five continents, and in the far-flung islands of the Pacific, Atlantic and Aegean Sea.

They have hospitals, schools and orphanages in virtually every state in the Union.

Courageous Nuns
Their global apostolate brought them to San Francisco in 1852, the first Sisters to live in this rugged pioneer town, then with a population of 25,000. The little band of seven Sisters of Charity had set out from Emmitsburg, Md., on the long trek to California — by boat to Panama; across the Isthmus on foot or on donkeys; by boat again to San Francisco Bay.

Two of the seven nuns, worn out by the heat and drenching rain, fell victims of cholera and died at Panama. The other five, sick from the arduous trip and sad at the loss of their companions, arrived on Aug. 18, 1852, and were installed in a dilapidated little frame building at Market and Montgomery streets — today the site of the Sheraton-Palace Hotel.

These courageous nuns' first home in San Francisco soon became the first St. Vincent's school and Catholic orphan asylum.

In 1854, the second band of five Daughters of Charity came to San Francisco, having traveled on the first train to cross the Isthmus of Panama. A new school, for the teaching of boys, became imperative, and a collection was taken up at St. Francis Church on Vallejo street. It was at this collection that San Francisco's first archbishop, the Most Rev. Joseph Alemany, removed his gold cross and chain, a gift from his family, and placed them on the collection plate.

The Sisters got their new school; but by 1858, still another school was needed, since the enrollment at the one school had reached 75 orphans and more than 300 day students. The additional school was eventually opened on Jessie street.

Thus, from these humble beginnings, as the great city of St. Francisco grew, so grew the work of St. Vincent's dedicated disciples — the Daughters of Charity. Today — 110 years after the first heroic band of five Sisters landed here — the order has six well-established San Francisco institutions, including two hospitals and four schools. In addition to Mary's Help Hospital in the Mission district, the Sisters operate St. Elizabeth's Infant Hospital at 100 Masonic avenue.

To the Daughters of Charity human suffering knows no political, social, economic, racial or sectarian boundaries. They serve out of pure love in the name of the Prince of Peace, Who taught and preached the Brotherhood of Man... and that we are, indeed, our brother's keeper.

Service to Poor
Unlike other religious orders who take the usual three vows of poverty, chastity and obedience, the Daughters of Charity take a fourth vow pledging "service to the poor." Although, like other voluntary hospitals, the Sisters must depend largely on patients who are able to pay, no one, however impoverished ever knocks in vain at the door of a Daughters of Charity Hospital.

Not only do they within reasonable economic limits take care of the poor and chronically ill people, some of whom have no insurance left and can't afford nursing-home care, but each Sister in the hospital has an assigned number of poor families in the neighborhood to visit and look after regularly. If any family member is too old and infirm to come to the clinic, a nursing Sister calls and cares for that person at home.

How do they finance all this charity work? Only the Recording Angel would know for sure. The answer would seem to be "generosity begets generosity," through friends and patrons of means who learn of this worthy work and assist it by occasional cash contributions or gifts in kind.

When it opens early in 1965, the new Mary's Help Hospital will be the most modern facility in the San Francisco-San Mateo area, featuring the latest in electronic aids to medicine. At the same time, the humanitarian spirit of service which has characterized the old Mary's Help for more than 50 years will be maintained.

Sister Hermine, administrator of Mary's Help Hospital, said it is the hope and ambition of herself and staff to operate the new hospital in such manner that every resident within the service area will regard it with personal pride and feel that "this truly is MY hospital."

Open to All People

"It should be emphasized anew," said Sister Hermine, "that it will be a general community hospital, open to all the people of the community regardless of age, religion, nationality, color, residence or fraternal affiliation. Charges will be kept to the minimum and free or part free care will be given to those in poor economic circumstances to the fullest extent possible within the financial capacity of the hospital."

In concluding her remarks, Sister Hermine stated:

"I would be remiss if I did not take this opportunity to thank all of the good people of San Mateo county — the officials at both the county and municipal levels, and the many various civic, business and ably and consistently supported this project."

COUNTY DOINGS

by JACK WOOD

A North County Youth Commission, proposed by Daly City Mayor Joe Verducci, was unanimously adopted by members of the North Council of Cities last Thursday night.

South San Francisco, Pacifica, San Bruno, Millbrae, Brisbane and Burlingame all joined Daly City in quest of a solution for the current outbreak of youth hoodlums.

The plan for the youth council was precipitated out of last week's gang war at Daly City's Thornton Beach in which one youth was slain and several were wounded.

The purpose of the new committee is to study the symptoms in the communities of youth problems and then suggest remedies for any which might occur.

Councilman Robert Price of San Bruno, who has worked with Verducci in organizing Pop Warner League football teams, was named to organize the commission.

Other members will include a city councilman, the police chief and city attorney from each member city; representatives of the county ministerial association, the county probation and recreation departments and sheriff's office, school principals and superintendents, high school and junior high school student officers, Scouting directors and members of the Catholic clergy.

A Great Night For A Great Lady

Final plans have been made for the dedication of the Margaret Pauline Brown School to be held on Friday evening, April 27, at 8 o'clock in the school multi-use room at 305 Eastmoor avenue, Daly City.

The school is an inspiring tribute to the "Lady of Colma." The modernistic elementary school, built on a hillside overlooking the cities of Daly City and Colma, the area which she loved so well, stands today as a monument to a woman who for over 65 years gave almost her entire life for the good of all local citizens, young and old.

They have never forgotten the sweet and kind lady who, as a local teacher, gave comfort to the ill, teaching to the young and also the newly-arrived foreigners who have since become outstanding citizens through her help and guidance.

Guest speakers will include O. Wayne Douglas, chairman, J.E.S.D. Board of Trustees; Dr. Vinton Stratton, assistant superintendent of schools, J.E.S.D.; Mario Ciampi, architect; Councilman Robert St. Clair of Daly City, and Mrs. Katherine R.

Mullen, J.E.S.D. board of trustees.

The invocation will be delivered by Rev. Herbert R. Tweedie of the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church. Donald M. Pagani, principal of the Margaret Pauline Brown School, will be host for the evening. Mrs. Mullen, life-long friend of Mrs. Brown's, will present the dedication plaque jointly to Pagani and the past and present student council presidents, Stephen Roberts and Marc Holmes.

A color guard of uniformed youth organizations represented in the school will present the flag. The school hymn will be sung by a group of children from each grade. Dan Casentini will welcome many of Mrs. Brown's friends and former students. Refreshments will be served.

Hosts and hostesses for the evening will be Donald Pagani, principal; Lawrence Anderson, faculty member and youth coordinator; Dan Casentini, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gillespie, program chairman; Mrs. Norman Gotti, invitation chairman; Mrs. Don Aron, guest speaker coordinator; and Mrs. George Buell, hospitality chairman.

PENINSULA EXPLORER SCOUTS GET SURVIVAL TRAINING

Thirty-six Peninsula Explorer Scouts spent Easter Vacation with the U. S. Marines in the High Sierras near Bridgeport, California.

The Explorers had survival training at the Marine Corps cold weather training center on the eastern slopes of the Sonora Pass. During their stay, the Scouts camped outdoors in the snow at elevations ranging from 8300 to 10,000 feet.

The purpose of the expedition, according to Victor W. Jensen, staff adviser of the San Mateo County Council of Boy Scouts, was to teach the boys to care for themselves in snow and cold weather situations.

"We were fortunate to have Marine instructors who specialize in such topics; some took their lessons during the winters of the Korea conflict," Jensen said.

The Marines taught the Scouts proper methods of preparing camps and shelters in the snow, how to avoid common cold weather illnesses, how to live off the land by fishing and use of snares and traps, and how to cross swift mountain streams.

Boy Scouts Rocket Ships Will Blast Off

Each ship will have as its target a "sun," an inflated rubber balloon. Each ship will be armed with a pin in its nose and speed to its course along a nylon guide line. The winning ships will be those that explode the balloons first.

The hour-long rocket demonstration will start at 11 a.m. in the Mall adjacent to J. C. Penney's. The Cubs of Pack 350 are sponsored by the Vista Grande-Thornton Parent-Teachers Association. Cubmaster is Michael Lemke of 130 East Moltke.

By GARRY NIVER

Mayor Joe Verducci seems to excel himself in any endeavor which is undertaken. We have been fortunate to know Joe for the past several years and he has always been somewhat of a hero to us.

In Daly City his dedication to the betterment of the community has always exceeded that of personal gain, which is an important virtue. At San Francisco State College, where Joe is assistant Dean of Activities, his understanding and insight into the problems of the students has made Verducci a popular man and friend with both students and educators alike. Many a time a student has had a personal problem which 'coach Joe' has straightened out.

Verducci has had many bright moments in his multi-faceted life. We were fortunate in being present at two of his most satisfying moments in sports.

The first came in November, 1959, in the Northern California community of Chico. It was a crisp, clear night in the agricultural town. The stands at the Chico State stadium were over-flowing with 12,000 people although the sign as you entered the community gave the population as slightly over 10,000.

The Golden Gators of San Francisco State had swept through nine straight opponents. Chico State was the tenth. The Gators boasted such names as Charlie Fuller, Julius Varnado, Willie Simpson, Hank Marshall and Jim Sochor. Before the night was over the Gators had crushed the Wildcats 32 to 7 and little Joe Verducci was emerged in a coach's dream—that of an undefeated season.

Verducci had just about reached the pinnacle as a football coach. He had realized a million-to-one shot which coaches always hope for but never quite achieve. It seemed that nothing more greater could happen to 'coach Joe.' It was the first undefeated season in the history of San Francisco State and the Gators ended up one of the three undefeated teams in the nation.

It was quite a feat for a small college which isn't allowed to give financial assistance to their athletes. It was several weeks later that Joe announced he was retiring from coaching after 26 years in the profession. The Northern California sports writers bestowed on Verducci the honor of "Coach of the Year."

But his grid career wasn't over yet. One of Verducci's wildest dreams was tutoring coaching before a Standing Room Only home crowd. At SF State, although it had provided good moments, the stadium was never more than half filled—most of the time not even that.

His final dream was realized. The East-West Shrine committee picked Verducci, along with Bill Barnes of UCLA, as coaches for football's finest hour.

It was a warm Saturday afternoon on the last day of 1959 as Verducci strolled out of the dressing room and onto the turf at vast Kezar stadium. Little Joe, dwarfed by the All Americans he was coaching, gazed around the arena. All he could see were people—60,000 of them to be exact. Joe was particularly proud because one of his boys, Charlie Fuller, had been selected on the West.

Although the West lost to the highly favored East 7-0, neither Joe nor fleet Charlie let the fans down. Both performed brilliantly and almost pulled out an upset in the final minutes.

Joe has had a lot of great moments and will probably have many more to come. But few will top these two brief, but great incidents in the life of Joe Verducci.

ON THE SIDELINES . . . Reports have it that the Minnesota Twins are looking very seriously at former Westmoor baseball great Barry Krohn. Krohn presently is leading the College of San Mateo Bulldogs.

The South San Francisco tournament played last week-end brought the major league scouts out in droves. Among those present in the stands were former major league greats Dolph Camilli, now with the New York Yankees and Charlie Silvera, scout for the Washington Senators. They came out early Saturday to view the Westmoor-Balboa tilt. One of the youths in the tourney under close scrutiny was Westmoor's Bruce Hix.

Gary Kenny, former SF State basketball star, is moving from an East Bay high school to El Camino in South SF to coach next year's varsity.

Tom Teshara, the inventor of Pee Wee baseball, reports that Daly City is interested in starting up several teams. Teshara's contribution to the sports world, which was formally adopted by the American Baseball Congress two weeks ago, got its start in South SF three years ago.

Bob Cleroux, Canada's top heavyweight, is the poorest excuse we have seen for a fighter in some time. The number four ranked heavy should have fought the preliminary last Wednesday night instead of the main event.

WESTMOOR FACES MILLS FRIDAY

The Westmoor Rams, finding the South San Francisco Baseball tourney to their dissatisfaction, slip back into the confines of the Peninsula League this week.

Coach Rod Losberger's nine, who received the bad side of lady luck during the tourney, pack their bags and trek South to Mills high school Friday for a 3 p.m. encounter with the Vikings.

The defending champion Rams were unfrocked in the tourney by St. Ignace 2-0 on Wednesday. Harry Brown allowed two scratch infield hits, but two bobbles sent Westmoor out of the back door. The Wildcats from SI went on to win the tournament 3-2 over South SF Saturday.

Ram second baseman Al Contreras was named to the ALL-Tourney team.

It could be from the frying pan into the fire for the Rams. Peninsula League race with a 5-0 record and are also smarting from two losses in the SSF baseball epic.

The Rams will have to beat their best if they expect to set back the fired up Vikings. A win will keep the green flashes from the Hilltop in title contention. A loss will bury them deeper into the dark depths of never return land.

The Rams did show some kinds of new life in the tourney. Big Dave Williams, who was shelved earlier in the season, gave indications that better things are forthcoming for the Rams.

The bespectacled freshman hurler smashed the San Mateo Bearcats 5-1 in the tourney opener. Last Saturday morning, with an array of major league scouts looking on, Williams lost a close 6-5 heart-breaker to Balboa.

Williams limited the Bucs to four hits, but was given some poor backing by his fellow teammates. The Rams committed six errors.

The Rams broke out in front in the second inning when slender Tito Torres caught a hold of a Ron Bringuel fastball and put it 360 feet over the left field barrier.

Westmoor got three more runs in the third inning when Contreras lead off with a double, and walks to Harry Brown, Steve Funai and Bruce Hix produced the runs.

Trailing 6-8 in the last of the seventh the never-say-die Rams almost pulled it out with the bases loaded and no outs.

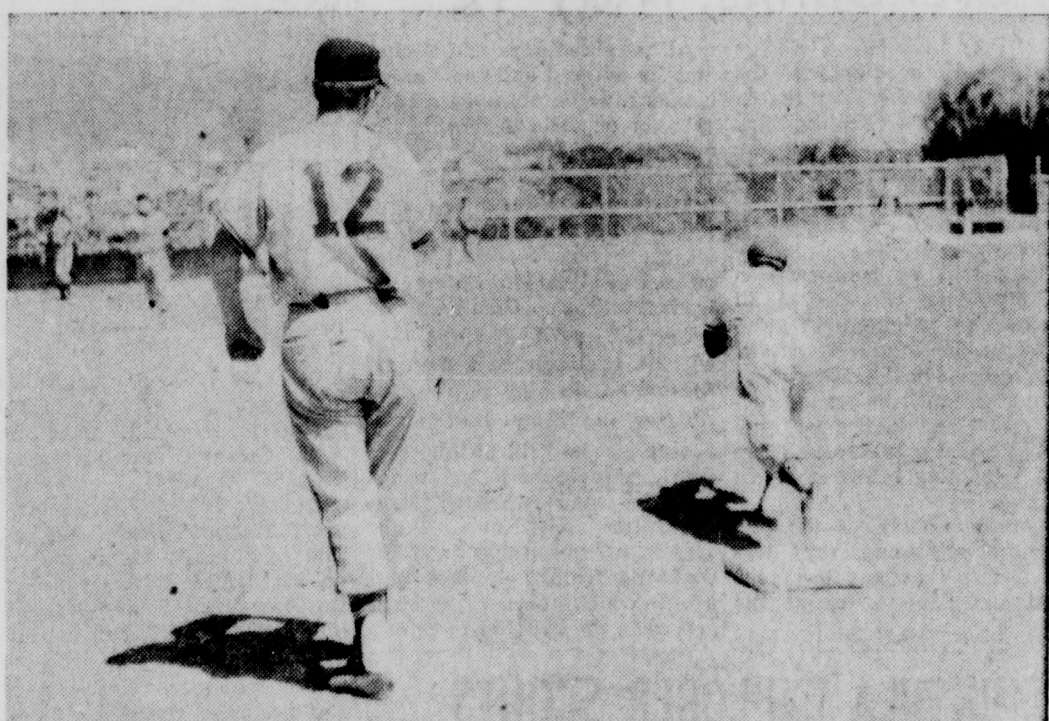

Pinch hitter Jim Cunningham led off the inning with a walk. Contreras, who got three of the Ram's five hits of the day, smashed a single into left. Brown walked to lead the bags.

Funai then smashed a hard drive up the center only to have Balboa second baseman Steve Vienino make a sensational stop and turn the hit into a double play. Cunningham scored but that was all the Rams could do.

Glass Slipper Races At Half Moon Drags

This Sunday will see spirited competition between two top dragsters from Northern California against what is considered the most beautiful car in America at Half Moon Bay.

From South San Francisco the Champion Speed Shop Special, California's number one fuel-driven Chevrolet, timed in excess of 181 mph with e.t.'s of 8.32 seconds with Sammy

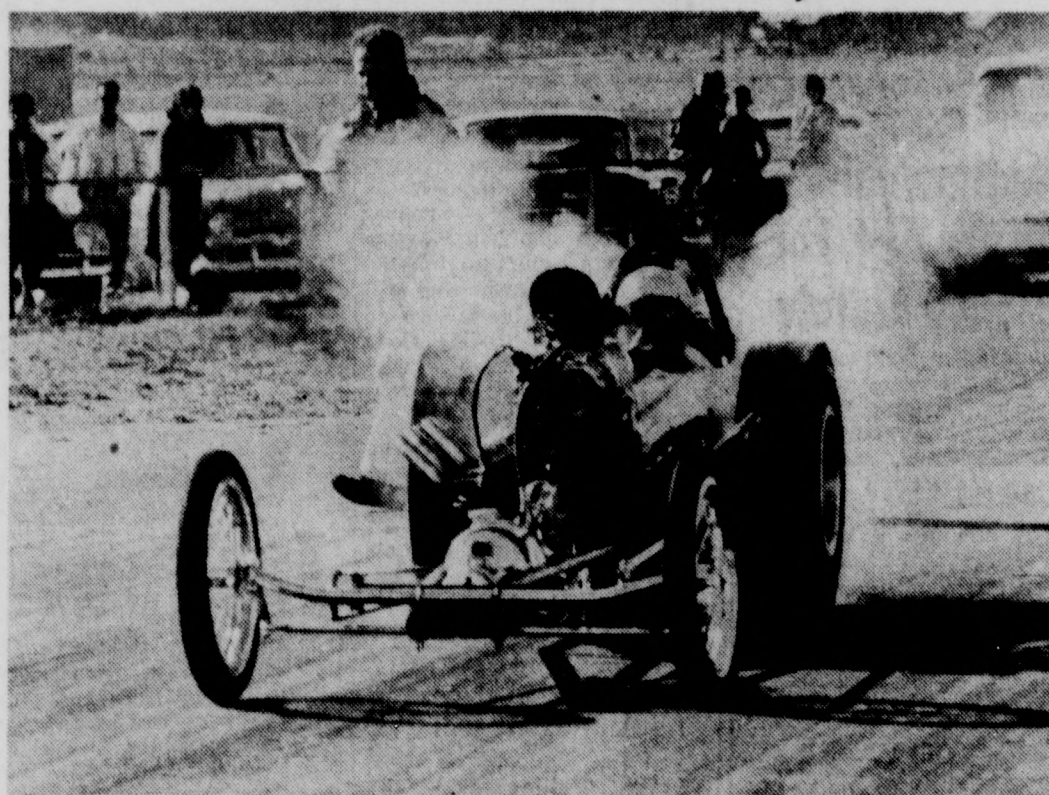

Hale on the wheel, will be out to prove it is the top car among those competing.

Also on hand vying for the top spot of the day is Lee Cohen and Allen Drew from Salinas with a super-charged Chevrolet dragster. These cars have sharpened up to match speed with the world famous super-charged Chevrolet dragster "The Glass-Slipper" from Sacramento, timed in excess of 170 mph driving on regular gasoline. This car is not only considered the most beautiful but the fastest gasoline-driven dragster in California.

In addition to Sunday's featured headlines, all of Northern California's top dragsters will be in attendance to compete for weekly honors in speed and precision driving.

Gates open at 8:30 a.m., eliminations at 1:30 p.m. Concession stands and ample parking facilities are available at the Half Moon Bay drag strip.

HIX LEADS BATTERS; REITZ CLOSE BEHIND

Westmoor third baseman Bruce Hix leads the Peninsula League batters after five games with a scintillating .615 average. Hix has collected eight hits in 15 times at bat.

Closely behind Hix are Jeff's Rich Reitz and Mills' Jan Dukes, both with .500 averages.

The Viking's Dukes also leads the hurling department with three wins against no losses. Jeff's Carl Carpenter is sixth in the standings with a 1-0 record.

Cypress Hills Expands

Cypress Hills Golf Course, opened to the public only two months, is enlarging its facilities in Colma to include a plush cocktail lounge and restaurant.

The nine-hole course, designed by famed golf course architect Jack Fleming, measures 2200 yards in length with six par-3 holes and three par-4's. Bob Silvestri, three-time winner of the San Francisco city championship and co-winner of the 1961 Bing Crosby pro-am Open, is the club's pro.

The challenging par-30 course is located midway between South San Francisco and Daly City just off Hillside Blvd. on gently rolling slopes of the Crocker Hills.

Plans were announced at the opening of the 50-acre development to add a country club-type restaurant and lounge early next year when the second nine holes would be completed.

But the venture immediately proved so popular that owners Gus Pedemonte of Hillsborough,

James Bonaccorsi of San Mateo and Roy Franzosa of Daly City decided to accelerate their plans, even though it meant a major reconstruction job and relocation of the just completed pro-shop.

Floodlit greens, illuminated for the benefit of Tee Room and Bunker guests, open up the putting green for after-dark practice.

It's SPARE TIME at Westlake Bowl

By Jim Grealish

Doris Cunningham and Pat Garcia have once again transformed the atmosphere of the Bowl into something different—this time into "Easter Land" for the Bunny Hop No-Tap Tournament, Dance and Buffet next Saturday night. As in the St. Patrick's Day event, which found 171 bowlers participating, bowling will start at 7 p.m., dancing at 9 and a buffet at 11:30. Vacations in Las Vegas for two will be awarded to the winning man and woman. Advance reservations at $3 per person may be made with Rick or Primo.

Gene Tarczy was the Bowler of the Week with two series well over the 600 mark. In the Golden Gate Handicap on Monday night he started out with a big 242 game, then relaxed through a 177 game and came back with 207 final game for a big 626 series. Tuesday night in the Southgate Mixed Fives League he again started out with a big game, this time a 251 effort, followed by 189 and 182 games for a 622 total. If Gene continues this pace we'll be looking for him on television one of these days.

Ann Ikler took first place in last Monday's Powder Puff Swiss Singles with a total of six points and 586 to take the first prize of $14. In second place was Nada Sylvester with five points, while Bonnie Birkett with three points took third place.

Irwin Penn finally hit the 600 mark without a pin to spare. It took a 244 final game to hit 600 but he was up to the task and led the 805 Scratch League.

This is "Bowl Down Cancer" week, not only in Westlake but throughout the country, as the 25 million league bowlers in various leagues help to fight the dread disease. There is a total of over $100,000 in donated prizes with all proceeds going to the American Cancer Society. For the non-bowlers, there will be representatives of the Cancer Society at the Bowl all week to accept donations and answer questions.

Westlake welcomed the March Club League last Monday night, with Elio Aliventi starting off with a bang by rolling a big 246 game and 586 series.

Open play bowlers continue to take advantage of the availability of open lanes during the league bowlers "vacation" between winter and summer seasons.

Westlakers will be in for an exhibition of junior bowling at its best on May 6 when the Bay Area Junior Masters 900 Scratch League bowlers invade Westlake. The eight teams of high caliber juniors will bowl at 6 p.m. on this date.

Early leaders in the Gold Coast Classic, which runs until June 24, were Bob West and Rich Hottal. Bob led the 165 and over group with a 691 total, followed by Steve Gotelli's 670. In the 164 and under class, Rich Hottal took over early possession of first place with 695, followed by Al Balleto with 673. Weekly winners in each class, bowlers who compete every week, and those placing in the top 10 per cent of the scores, will qualify for the Westlake finals June 30 and the possibility of competing in the grand finals in Reno in July, where over $15,000 is guaranteed in cash prizes.

The Kings and Queens Mixed 850 Scratch League is off to a booming start. On opening night, Val Valencia posted a 681 series on games of 202-212-267 to give the rest of the league a real target for high game and series. Roger Noll started with two 180 games then rolled a big 246 third game to register a 606 series, while Pat Marks led the ladies with a 191 game and 525 series.

John Gibbons started the Mayfair Strike League off on the right foot with a big 628 series on games of 191-223-214.

The Navy landed and the situation was well in hand at Westlake Bowl last week as almost 200 active duty Navy men and women competed Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in the annual 12th Naval District Tournament. Dale Majors took top prize among the men with 3499 total for 18 games, while Rose Stewart was the leading lady among the 25 female competitors.

Dennis Leads Cancer Bowl

As a part of the current Bowl Down Cancer Week, the Westlake Bowl will serve as a depot for collections from non-bowlers who wish to help fight this dread disease.

Councilman Edward J. Dennis, Daly City Chairman of the Cancer Drive along with co-chairman Ann Eason and Mrs. John B. Drye on hand to kick-off the local city-wide drive.

The local drive is in addition to the Bowl Down Cancer joint drive of the American Cancer Society and the Bowling Proprietors Association of America.

Trout Season

Thousands of trout fishing enthusiasts will take to the lakes and streams this Saturday, for the official opening of the state's general trout season.

However, trout fishermen of Del Norte, Humboldt and Mendocino counties must wait until May 26 before their season begins.

The limit will be the same as last year: ten trout or salmon in combination, but not more than ten ponds and one fish, according to the California Department of Fish and Game. There are only minor changes in this year's trout and salmon regulations, but anglers are urged to check pages 12 through 28 of their 1962 sport fishing regulations booklet.

ADDING WATER

Ten to fifteen minutes is usually enough time to allow the engine to cool before adding water to a radiator that has become overheated, points out the National Automobile Club.
